Regional approval kicks speedway into high gear

Kris Dube

The Canadian Motor Speedway project finished two very important laps in its long race to the finish line this week.

Town council voted unanimously on Monday in favour of amending its official plan to move the project forward in front of a packed crowd at the Leisureplex banquet hall, after a record setting 54 delegations were made by people who either support or oppose the first-class motor-speedway.

On Wednesday afternoon, the Niagara Region's planning committee voted in favour of an application to amend its policy plan, moving the proposed multi-million dollar auto-racing facility further in the long approval process. There are plans for a 75,000 square-foot commercial and retail space while McMaster University hopes to build a research and development centre at the site.

The Jeff Gordon affiliated speedway could include a one-mile oval course and 2.5 mile road course built on 820 acres of land adjacent to the QEW between Bowen and Gilmore Roads.

Before the report was approved, the Region's director of development services Peter Colosimo gave an oral presentation about the plan amendment, explaining there is still an extensive list of pending approvals with the project.

Project's finish line still many laps away

The Region has to endorse the Town of Fort Erie's amendment to its official plan and provincial agencies like the Ministry of Environment (MOE) and Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) still need to be satisfied with what is proposed.

"We will be discussing that further but so far we feel we're on track with their support," said Colosimo.

The project also needs to go through a process of decisions made by different levels of government when the time comes for addressing site plan agreements and zoning.

"This has to be approved in order to bring the whole project together from a land use and planning perspective," said Colosimo.

Another obstacle that could be thrown onto the track is an appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board which can be made by any resident who opposes the speedway.

Bruce White, an opponent to the proposal and member of the Citizens Against Racing Speedway (CARS) said this is a measure he and other members of the group will likely be taking, while he spoke at the municipal council meeting on Monday.

At Wednesday's regional meeting, CARS chair Sandy Van voiced her concerns on behalf of the opposition, saying the idea of growth is something they support but not a project of this magnitude.

"These people are not blind to the need for the town to develop and move forward...but at what cost?" she asked.

Representing the Fort Erie Chamber of Commerce at both meetings was Stephen Passero. He feels this is an opportunity that will benefit all of Greater Fort Erie and the entire region at the same time.

"Wouldn't it be nice to be number one in something other than Chamber of Commerce at both meetings on television for something other than the first snowstorm?" asked Passero.

One stipulation in the report he agrees with is that the commercial development of the proposed facility should not have a negative impact on the financial viability of core designated commercial lands within Fort Erie and that it must be related to the speedway in some way.

"As tremendous as the potential is for this development, we do not endorse the creation of a self-sustaining city within our town," said Passero in both his speeches.

After the regional report was supported, Jay Mason, one of the Canadian Motor Speedway's proponents said this is just the first of many laps in the race to the finish line.

He said the two approvals given this week are "a clear message" that the project is being supported up until this point and is confident any concerns raised by the MNR or the MOE can be addressed.

"If there's a question from any agency, we need to answer them," said Mason.

Shirley Cordner, Fort Erie regional councillor said this indicates the support to move forward with investigating and compiling all the information that needs to be made available before endorsing the project entirely. She agrees there are many more stages in the process and feels denying this proposal at such an early stage would affect other future developments.

"If we can't support a proposal of this magnitude, nobody is going to come back to Fort Erie," she said.

WHEN HEARING LOSS LEADS TO ISOLATION
Even mild hearing losses have been found to negatively impact individuals' functioning ability. Communication problems arising from hearing loss often spread in the way of resolving proper medical treatment, strain family relations, and restrict the enjoyment of leisure activities. All this is because people who cannot hear well tend to withdraw rather than face the embarrassment of frequent misunderstandings and inappropriate responses. Instead of attempting to answer questions they do not understand, they become non-communicative. This withdrawal from social situations contributes an average of ten years before assistance is sought. A more immediate response could lead them toward fuller lives more quickly. With this in mind, family members and friends of hearing-impaired seniors should suggest they get a hearing test. Hearing loss is often a result of aging, although it can also be caused (or made worse) by prolonged exposure to loud noise, illness, heredity, injury, and medications. ## Town council gives speedway full support

Kris Duff
Times Staff

At Monday's council-in-committee meeting, Ward 5 Coun. Martha Lockwood used her family's relocation to Fort Erie in the early 1970's as an example of why she feels the Canadian Motor Speedway is a good opportunity for Fort Erie.

She lived very close to the Fort Erie Racetrack and Horton Steel, saying the sound of those two sites in operation aren't anywhere near what a speedway could potentially cause, but it did provide assurance that there was opportunity around town.

"To me, those were signs of life and activity," said Lockwood, referring to some residents' concerns about noise.

Ward 2 Coun. Rick Shular feels this is an opportunity the Town could not pass on. He feels the applicants will do everything they can to assure the concerns of residents about environmental impact, noise and pollution will be mitigated through the many stages that still need to take place such as approvals from the Niagara Region, the Niagara Peninsula Conservation Authority and provincial agencies like the ministry of natural resources and the ministry of environment.

"I think we have a lot of well educated people who will take everything into consideration," said Shular.

Bob Steckley, councillor for Ward 3 also endorsed the project with positive comments. He started by commending everyone on both sides of the issue who had the courage to get up and speak in front of a large crowd in a public forum. He said he is bolstered by the amount of people in opposition who claim the speedway is just a way for the investors, Emirates Consulting, to turn a profit.

"I don't know the last time there was a businessman out there who didn't expect to make money," said Steckley.

He said people should not fault someone who is interested in setting up shop in the community and that "profit is not a dirty word."

He also said he is concerned by those who claim the speedway will be approved through a "back door" process with very little public consultation or attention paid to environmental and noise issues.

"A development of this size will never be able to get away with that. They're under too big of a microscope," said Steckley.

Ward 6 Coun. Anne-Marie Noyes echoed Steckley's comments saying the project will provide many economic and employment benefits, especially in a community with an unemployment rate as high as Fort Erie's, where so many people are dependent on social services.

"The economic impact of this development is very important. It will bring jobs and education while improving the skill-sets of our residents," said Noyes.

Considering there are still several approvals that need to be given from different agencies and ministries, Noyes said if concerns raised by residents are projected to have an overall impact by these governing bodies they will be addressed in the process.

"It's daunting how many questions need to be answered. It's far from a done deal but it does have to move forward so we can get to a conclusion," said Noyes.

Ward 1 Coun. and acting mayor Sandy Annuzzata also commended all the delegates at the meeting, which lasted almost seven hours. He continued by saying there are still many laps to go on the speedway project and expects the applicants will continue to work in a transparent manner, addressing the many concerns people have with the project.

"Approving this tonight does not remove responsibility of the proposition to provide answers and to provide the necessary requirements to go forward and deem this a responsible development," said Annuzzata.

Traffic stop leads to drug charges

On Thursday, Dec. 3rd a uniformed officer with the Niagara Regional Police stopped a vehicle for a traffic violation on Bertie Street. As the officer spoke to the motorist, over seven grams of crack-cocaine was discovered inside his vehicle. An undisclosed amount of currency was seized along with drug paraphernalia. A 26-year-old male has been charged with possession for the purpose of trafficking and possession of proceeds obtained by crime. He was held in custody, pending a bail hearing held in provincial court last Friday.

Suspicious vehicle leads to arrest

On Thursday, at 2 a.m., uniformed officers from the Niagara Regional Police Service No. 5 district, responded to a 911 call on Point Abino Road. While the officers were in the area, they observed a suspicious vehicle leave a neighbouring property that appeared to be vacant. The vehicle was stopped by police and the lone male was questioned and arrested. Further investigation revealed that the male had entered a locked garage on the property and he had stolen property in his vehicle, which was recovered by police. A 37-year-old male is charged with break, enter and theft.

Summer resident catches thief in the act

On Friday, Dec. 4th at about 9 a.m. a 45-year-old New York State resident was checking his summer cottage on Barker Street in Ridgeway. Upon arrival, he noticed an unknown red pickup truck in the driveway. After entering his summer home, he noticed that a screen door had been cut and a window forced open, allowing entry into the premises. He saw a heavy-set male run from the cottage, get in his vehicle and flee the area. The seasonal resident notified the Niagara Regional Police, explaining the situation and that several items were missing from the home. The accused, a 30-year-old male was apprehended a short distance away at his own residence and arrested by police. He is being charged with break and enter, theft and breach of probation.

No tolls at Peace Bridge on Christmas Day

The Peace Bridge Authority will not be charging a toll for cross border travellers on Christmas Day. The toll free period will be in effect starting at 12 a.m. on Christmas morning. "By not charging tolls on Christmas, we're able to spread some holiday cheer and give as many of our employees as possible the opportunity to spend the day with their families," said Anthony Annunziata, the PBA's chairman.

Focus on positive things during Christmas season

Changing someone's outlook on life is never an easy task, but at Christmas time...everyone should be thankful for what they have, whether it is a large or small amount.

Being surrounded by friends and family, visiting people you haven't seen since last year's holiday celebrations should be the most important things on people's minds this time of year...not complaining about the weather or a recent decision made by the Town of Fort Erie.

There are so many other countries dealing with much more important issues like natural disasters and poverty.

They have it much worse than we do...that's for sure.

This holiday season, people really need to sit back and think about what truly is important to them and do their best not to focus on the negative if possible.

Instead of dwelling on the negative impact some residents feel the Canadian Motor Speedway will have on the area...try to think about the positive.

Rather than formulating a plan to challenge the Town's budget process, think about the Olympic Torch Relay and how historic of an event this will be for Fort Erie when the symbolic flame passes through town.

The positive definitely outweighs the negative and it would be nice if more people found the validity in this statement.

Editor still recovering from Monday's council meeting

EDITOR'S NOTEBOOK

By Kris Dubé

I've been covering town council meetings for about two years and I can easily say I've never seen anything like that before.

At Monday's council-in-committee meeting, over 400 people swarmed the Leisureplex banquet hall to watch our local politicians make a crucial decision that would allow the Canadian Motor Speedway project to move forward. Most of them didn't actually stay until council discussed the idea of amending its official plan because most people probably had to work in the morning.

The meeting lasted almost seven hours which is just about what I expected. Before last week's paper went to print, the Times reported that 25 people had signed up to speak at the meeting in favour or protest on council moving ahead with approving the report on the table.

By 3 p.m. on Monday that number skyrocketed to 54.

"It's definitely a record," town clerk Carolyn Kett told me this week.

I've given my thoughts on the project before and said that as a life-long resident of Fort Erie I fully support it. That hasn't changed at all and that's not really what I want to explain here.

There were a lot of people at Monday's meeting who I believe were under the impression that if council decided to approve the report, which it did unanimously, the Canadian Motor Speedway would be built almost immediately without any more questions asked.

That is not the case by any stretch of the imagination.

Several provincial agencies need to ask questions, the Region needs to approve the Town's official plan amendment, the Niagara Peninsula Conservation Authority needs to be satisfied...this list could go on as long as the entire process might take.

Another question I asked myself throughout most of the historic meeting was "how am I going to quote all these people?"

I literally filled the remaining half of a notepad, ran out of batteries on my digital recorder and had a pen run dry on me. I'm not complaining because it was quite the experience.

AROUND TOWN

Sisters Kaidence and Dania Maracle going over their Christmas wish list with Santa Claus at last Saturday's Breakfast with Santa at Crystal Beach Public School.

There were so many good arguments on both sides of the issue, which is why I feel safe saying this could be one of the longest car-rides you've been on in a really long time. So, buckle up.

Molinaro's plan for Bay Beach offers 'positive possibilities' for Greater Fort Erie

Dear Editor,

I have realized for a long time the untapped potential of Crystal Beach. I have watched businesses come and go. I have driven up and down Erie Road a few times a week at various times of day and at various times of the year, seeing little if any action. I have sat in meetings and presentations and I hear the same possibilities suggested by those who are attempting to see and advise on the Bay Beach site objectively. At the end of all this, I see a current plan by the Molinaro Group that offers positive possibilities for this site in Crystal Beach.

I am impressed with the progressive attitude and visionary directive of our council in offering what they believe is a good thing for Crystal Beach and an asset to Fort Erie.

I am anticipating a progressive and re-created lakeside development that will enhance a beach that for too long has been an unsightly part of our community.

I am excited because the finished product will prove to everyone that we have valued and developed potentially one of the greatest assets we have in the Greater Fort Erie community.

Some major needs for The Crystal Beach Gateway Project that will have been dealt with are parking, perhaps even more than we need.

More residents for almost all year round, so what if they go south for part of the year? Wouldn't we all like to do that? A beach open to the public will be retained and there will be commitment to public access to the beach. Beautiful and new beach amenities and washrooms are also part of the plan along with a public pavilion for community use.

The whole project will be enhanced by landscaping covering over 75 per cent of the property.. And maybe even some flowers.

This will provide a "longed-for" and compelling view of the lake.

This is what I would like to see in Crystal Beach and the Molinaro Group is the financial resource to make this happen.

St. Luke's thankful for community support

Dear Editor,

What I love about Greater Fort Erie is its generosity of spirit. St. Luke's Lutheran Church has had a difficult year since our church burned down. Yet, every time we get discouraged someone else does something wonderful to give us hope. It means so much that the young people of Niagara Christian Community of Schools chose us to be the beneficiary of their Christmas canata. Everyone involved practised for countless hours under the direction of Mrs. Anne Landey to make the event a success.

Rev. Sally Anne Longfellow and the congregation of People's Memorial United Church provided us a home for the second performance. Ridgeway-Crystal Beach High Schools lent us equipment for the night and the ladies from the St. Paul's Anglican choir joined the choir of St. Luke's to create the adult component. Even the first snow of the season didn't stop people from coming out in support. Thank you all for living the spirit of Christmas.

The skatepark is scheduled to be constructed by the late fall of 2010.

Concepts for the Skatepark will be presented at the Public Open House. Your input is important and will help determine how this park serves the future needs of the community. Town staff and the project consultant will be in attendance to discuss the park concepts and to answer any questions.

Complex continuing care beds being removed from Douglas Memorial next year

Kris Dunn
Times Staff

The Niagara Health System (NHS) is moving ahead with a part of its hospital improvement plan by removing eight complex-continuing care beds from the Douglas Memorial urgent care centre site.

By late April or May of 2010 the Douglas site will scale down to 46 beds once the change is implemented.

The NHS's health program director for transitional care services Wendy Robb says continuing care has changed significantly over the last eight to ten years and in the past many patients spent the rest of their life there after being admitted. Now, there are far more options with aging-at-home strategies, home care enhancements and health services available in the community.

"They have much more care that they can provide in the community now than they ever have in the past," said Robb.

"It's not a permanent destination anymore," she said.

She couldn't determine how if

-NHS's health program director for transitional care Wendy Robb

this would result in any layoffs, saying the NHS's human resources department is meeting with different unions to work out a solution.

There will re-deployment opportunities for some staff and others may decide to retire but giving a figure of how many people could potentially be impacted was something she could not do at this point, saying more information will be available in about two weeks.

"We're trying to minimize and have no layoffs," she said.

The NHS's Port Colborne and Welland sites will also undergo the same transition, with 10 beds being removed.

Alshin Keyvoni, Connie Engels, Dallas Marriott and Peter Koutroulakis gather at the Old Bank Bistro to start planning for a Jan. 13 charity dinner being put on by Fort Erie Secondary School. Funds will go towards helping Marriott take part in a Habitat for Humanity build in Vietnam and towards Community Outreach Program Erie.

Charity dinner helping student travel to Vietnam with Habitat for Humanity

MATT DAY
Times Staff

When Dallas Marriott heard about the opportunity of a lifetime, he wasted no time in letting it be known this was something he wanted to do.

"Before I could even finish asking the class if anyone was interested, he was halfway up the aisle coming to get his application," said Fort Erie Secondary School's co-operative education coordinator Connie Engels.

Marriott, a Grade 12 student at the school, will be heading to Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam at the end of June to take part in a District School Board of Niagara International (DSBN) project in coordination with Habitat for Humanity. He was chosen as one of 15 students throughout the board who will be taking part in the 10 day home-build halfway across the world.

"I'm excited about being chosen. Actually, overwhelmed because there are going to be so many mentors I will be able to hold onto. It's a once in a lifetime opportunity."

He said he feels he will be a good fit in the build because he likes to work with his hands.

"I'm dedicated and a hard worker and I feel if I'm able to work with my hands that I will be beneficial."

Marriott has to raise $3,500 in order to cover his expenses for the trip. He plans on doing that with the help from the school and community partners.

FESS has already pledged to help front money to sell chocolate bars and t-shirts and is fully supporting Marriott's endeavour ahead of him.

"I think it proves you can come from a small town high school and still have the opportunity to do extraordinary things," said Engels.

"To go to a foreign country, supporting those who need it and doing charity work for a reputable organization is going to be something he won't forget."

His departure date, set for June 29, is his birthday and his graduation day. He said he doesn't mind not being at home for both, though.

The school is also planning a charity dinner at the Old Bank Bistro which in turn will help Alshin Keyvoni's hospitality program students.

With owner Peter Koutroulakis' permission, the students who usually run and operate the high school's Pomegranate Restaurant on Wednesday nights will be taking over the kitchen on Jan. 13 to help raise funds for the trip and raise community awareness for the program.

"It's a win-win situation for everybody," said Engels. "It allows those students to gain experience in a professional environment, it shows Peter's commitment in helping the community and hopefully it will raise a lot of money for Dallas' trip."

So far, Marriott has raised $500 thanks to Aero-safe Technologies and Bertie Tire Centre - two of his cooperative education placements.

Proceeds from the dinner will be shared between Marriott's cause and Community Outreach Program Erie.

Tickets are $35 each and are available by calling the high school at 905-871-4610.

Addressing poverty with Niagara Prosperity Initiatives

Kris Dumd
Times Staff

The Business Education Council (BEC) needs organizations in Greater Fort Erie to help facilitate its Niagara Prosperity Initiatives.

Over recent time, the BEC has conducted three different "community conversations" locally to address poverty issues, focusing on specific neighbourhoods that need more attention than others.

There are 34 programs being funded by the Niagara Region's community services department with $1.7 million but there is still a need for community organizations to get involved.

"On a neighbourhood to neighbourhood basis, we want to put programs and services in place, lifting those neighbourhoods and hopefully breaking the cycle of poverty," said BEC spokesperson Rick Merritt at an informational meeting, hosted by the Bridges Community Health Care Centre

(CHC).

Merritt said the feedback given at the previous conversations focused on accessibility of education, literacy and youth programs. He also said employment issues were discussed thoroughly and hopes they can be addressed if these initiatives are a success in Greater Fort Erie.

"A lot of people are hearing about the 'new economy' and want to know how to get ready and prepare for it," said Merritt referring to the amount of jobs that have been lost in Niagara recently and what affected residents are doing to find steady employment.

Bridges' health promoter Rhonda Barron says the CHC model of care is complementary of the BEC's initiatives and that they both are driven to address similar concerns.

"We have to talk about how that model is very suited to addressing poverty just simply because of the programs we develop and deliver," said Barron.

Because access to health care was a heavily discussed topic in the BEC's conversations with area residents, she said it is a great opportunity to work together.

"We're doing lots of good work and we want to make sure the community knows about it," said Barron.

Local Olympic torch relay route determined

The local community has Olympic fever for all the right reasons.

On Dec. 21st, the Olympic torch will be making its way into town with festivities to start at 8 a.m. on Jarvis Street. There will be a free pancake breakfast hosted by RBC and spectators can have their picture taken with a torch replica and meet an Olympian.

The torch will be carried, starting at Phipps and Crooks Streets at 8:56 a.m. to the Niagara Boulevard. From there, it will continue back to Jarvis Street where mayor Doug Martin will be on-hand to greet the symbolic torch.

It will then be carried along Central Avenue to Garrison Road, the last stop on the route.

People who are able to take in the sights are encouraged to wear their best red and white ensemble to show their Canadian pride.

Rick Merritt, left, of the Business Education Council of Niagara and Rhonda Barron of the Bridges Community Health Centre working together to address the accessibility of health care and other programs and services in the area.

The Three Cantors, made up of William Cliff, David Pickett and Peter Wall performing at St. Paul's Anglican Church on Wednesday as part of a benefit show for Community Outreach Program Erie and the Primate's World Relief and Development Fund.

Three Cantors fill St. Paul's Anglican Church with sounds of the season

MATT DAY
Times Staff

It all started on a dare 12 years ago.

A group of Canadian Anglican priests brought together by their passion for music have now raised more than $1 million over the past years for The Primate's World Relief and Development Fund (PWRDF) with their singing ability.

"A colleague of ours heard us singing and dared us to do a show to benefit the Huron Hunger Fund. We laughed, thought no one would come, and it turned out more than 600 people came to hear us three guys sing."

They describe their collection of songs from sacred to silly.

Either way, their performances have captivated audiences while giving back to a worthwhile cause.

On Wednesday night, The Three Cantors visited St. Paul's Anglican Church to do a benefit show for Community Outreach Program Erie and their cause, the PWRDF.

About 150 people braved the wind and blistering cold weather and attended the show.

The group is actually made up of four members. The singers are Peter Wall, William Cliff and David Pickett. They are accompanied by maestro Angus Sinclair.

Pickett said he is continuously amazed at the amount of support the group of friends receive.

"I'm very, very happy that you can combine music, good will and faith to make a difference in the world. It's funny how you can take gifts you receive and give it back for a cause."

This isn't the first time they have performed at St. Paul's. Last year they did a benefit concert too, and Pickett said the overall atmosphere inside the church makes it easy to come to.

He said they perform at all kinds of different venues, but whenever they are asked to sing inside an Anglican church, "it feels like home."

Rev. Mark Gladding said when it came time to choose a charity, benefitting the local outreach program seemed like the right fit.

"We've been helping them out for a long time and what they do in town is crucial," he said. "To be able to benefit them and get the community together for a night of entertainment is great."

The Three Cantors have performed more than 160 shows now and Pickett said the trio is getting used to the routine.

"We all have day jobs so we usually come to shows feeling a bit tired, but we leave feeling good. In our concerts, we often receive back a lot more than we give."

"I think it's really cool, the ability music has to find common ground for all types of people," said Pickett.

For more information on the group, visit www.3cantors.com

Even local MPP Kim Craitor was on hand to watch the show filled with Christmas classics, beloved carols and the Cantors' favourite melodies.

Knights of Columbus free throw competition recognized for participation

An annual tradition in Fort Erie has proven to be "nothing but net" over the last few years.

On Tuesday, the Knights of Columbus Immaculate Conception Council No. 3320 was presented an award for having the third highest participation in its annual free throw competition within area schools.

Since the program started in 1973, more than 2.5 million young people have taken a shot at the competition.

Last year, over 3,000 Knights of Columbus councils held contests, drawing out more than 213,000 girls and boys.

Locally this year, 1,419 students participated in the free throw championship, a record setting turnout since it started almost 40 years ago.

Every contestant is awarded a certificate of participation and those who win a championship at the local and district levels receive a plaque.

In the boys category, there were two repeat winners from previous years.

Sunny Ray Hill from Crystal Beach Public School in the 11-year-old boys division and Austin Weiss from Garrison Road Public School in the 13 year-old division.

Weiss was tied at the end of the regulation 15 attempts with Daniel Gamez from Niagara Christian Community of Schools with 10 baskets.

In the overtime shootout, Weiss drained four out of five shots to narrowly prevail over Gamez.

In the girls division, overtime was also needed for the 14 year old girls with Courtney Brooks from Crystal Beach Public School outlasting Heather Thompson of Stevensville Public School.

Grand knight for the Fort Erie branch Pat Hudak said there is only one school in Greater Fort Erie who does not participate in the event, which shows this is something schools and students alike enjoy very much.

"We can't grow much bigger than that," said Hudak.

Hervin LaBrosseur, Niagara District deputy grand knight said it is remarkable for a town like Fort Erie to achieve the third highest participation, considering schools in the Greater Toronto Area are all participants.

"This is really great to see, especially going against places with triple the population," he said.

Lack of players still big issue in Meteors' locker room

MATT DAY
Times Staff

When the Meteors headed to the locker room after their disappointing 6-0 loss to the Welland Canadians last Saturday, head coach Yvan Charrois was at a loss for words.

The team, desperately needing the win to stay ahead of Welland in the Golden Horseshoe Division standings, were handed yet another blowout loss in a season filled with many of them.

"The effort wasn't there tonight. We didn't show up to play and it is what it is."

Fort Erie hadn't played a game for a week and the rust clearly showed.

"You never want to get shut out in your own rink. We had lackadaisical practices all week, a bunch of guys were missing and played with no effort. The whole week sucked."

Frustrated with the loss, Charrois tried to remain positive by remaining focused on the 24 games still to come.

"A loss is a loss either you lose 3-2 in overtime or 10-0. At the end of the day we have eight teams in the conference and any team can beat any other team... as we have seen before. We'll be getting back at it during practice and hopefully the guys will show up to play in our next game."

A key factor in the Meteors' effort has been the lack of depth the team has.

Charrois said for a good portion of the year the team has been playing with only four defencemen and limited forwards which doesn't allow for any healthy competition.

"When you don't have guys sitting in the stands itching to play it hurts the team. The guys start feeling comfortable knowing they will play every night and might not put as much work into their position if they knew a guy was right at their backs trying to earn a spot."

Veteran player Mike Baxter said the short bench coupled with all of the penalties the Meteors have been taking lately are serving as a recipe for poor performances.

"The short bench is getting to us. It's hard to feel like a team when you don't have everybody out there," he said. "We are a hard working team when everyone is together though."

It wasn't all bad news for the Meteors. Despite being shut out, the youngsters on the team dialed up decent scoring chances throughout the night and newly acquired backup goaltender Colton Sauer played well for the Meteors in the third period with the game out of reach.

One thing is certain, the Meteors can't continue dropping all their games against the league's bottom four teams if they want to better position themselves come playoff time.

They'll look to get back on the winning track tonight when they take on the Thorold Blackhawks at the Leisureplex. Game time is set for 7:45 p.m.

Remember?

The sights... the smells... the sounds. It's the one time of year when just one whiff of a Christmas tree instantly brings us back to our childhood—Dad, trying to untangle the lights, Mom, cooking up a storm.

We know this because we have families, as well. We wish your family a happy holiday season.

In memoriam

In loving memory of our precious Mom
OLIVENE MERLE HILL
who left us two years ago, Dec. 13th, 2007

If roses grow in Heaven Lord
Please pick a bunch for me.
Place them in My Mother's arms
And tell her they're from me.
Tell her I love her and miss her,
And when she turns to smile,
Place a kiss upon her cheek
And hold her for a while.
Because remembering her is easy
I do it every day.
But there is an ache within my heart,
That will never go away.
Forever loved and missed, daughter Marion Henry and grandchildren.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Forever missed, Verna, Wayne and family.

WALTER "BABE" DOUGLAS

In loving memory of a dear husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather who passed away December 16, 2008.

God took him home, it was His will,
But in my heart I love him still;
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
Love, Jean

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near,
And only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
More each day we miss you, father,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.
Jim, Jake, Jeff, Barry and their families.

If you have a brick or bouquet send it to editorial@forterietimes.com or phone 905-871-3100,
ext. 210 and leave a message

Brick

To people who don't have any Christmas cheer and are miserable even though they have no reason to be.

Bouquet

To the municipal and regional councils for moving forward with the Canadian Motor Speedway project. There are still many questions that need to be answered but this is a very good head start.

Brick

To people who do not shovel the sidewalk in front of their homes. My children walk to school everyday past your house and have to risk falling and injuring themselves because of your laziness.

Bouquet

To the Town of Fort Erie for scaling down its plans for the Crystal Beach Development project.
Hopefully this will satisfy the many people who were opposed to the original plan of two twelve story buildings to be built.

Brick

To all the people who have resorted to crime to put food on the table this Christmas or to put presents under the tree for your children. There are jobs out there and you don't need to disrupt other people's peaceful lives because you would rather steal than work.

Brick

To the person who continually throws their chocolate milk containers out of their car window onto Window Point Road. I'm sure that the place where you are going to will have a garbage can. Can you please stop throwing your garbage out of the window and put it in the garbage can when you get to where you are going? I think I speak on behalf of everyone when I say changing your ways would be greatly appreciated.

Bouquet

To everyone who donates to local charities
during the holiday season.
